W. J. TREGILLUS WRITES A GOOD LETTER

Every one who is interested in agriculture, and they are by no means limited to the tillers of the soil, for agriculture is conceded to be the foundation of the prosperity of this province, are grateful to Senator Talbot for his timely and forcible letter on this matter, and prompt action should be taken, now that we have such a note of warning. Senator Talbot says, "In my opinion the placing of the agricultural college at Strathcona, and under university management, would be the severest blow that the agricultural interests of this province could possibly receive." His opinion is shared by Professor Elliott of Bozeman, Mont., and others who have given the matter thought. "We cannot allow this blow to fall."

Agriculture is big enough, important enough and should have friends enough to stand alone, and those of us who are interested directly or indirectly must guard it from blows of this kind, and give it every possible protection, for in it lies success or failure as a province. When we consider that every living creature on the face of the earth must live on the products of the soil the man who tills the soil must not be ignored.

In times of peril it is the farmer who gives his most costly tribute—life itself and the lives of his sons in his country's defence—in times of peace he adds to the nation's storehouse more actual wealth than any other man. If anybody deserves consideration and encouragement it is the man who plows the field and delivers its golden tribute to the nation's granary.

I have no reliable figures as to the value of Alberta's agricultural production for 1908, but the American farmers during that year added nine billions of dollars to that nation's wealth. We cannot comprehend what this means at first thought, it is so tremendous.

This wealth was not taken from the pockets of less favored nations, as the plunder of war; nor has it been filched from unsuspecting speculators, or defenceless competitors in the fields of industry; nor taken from Mother Earth by the lucky accident of mining. It was taken from the soil, and is the fruit of both patient industry and intelligence, joined with labour and can be repeated every year.

Some idea of the magnitude of this agricultural industry in America and the capital occupied in its operations may be formed when it is said: that if the American farm lands alone were offered for sale, the whole world does not contain sufficient ready money to make a cash purchase.

Recognizing to some extent the infinite importance of this great industry, we must lay the foundations of Alberta's successful agricultural development broad and deep. The necessity for an agricultural college was seen long ago, and was first publicly mooted at the convention of institute workers two years ago, at which time resolutions requesting the government of the province to establish one were passed, letters by the writer appeared in agricultural papers on the need of one.

We want our future farmers to be fully equipped with the best training in practical and scientific knowledge, and our present ones to be supplied with the wonderful, the helpful and the profitable facts, which would be brought to light from the fields of research. In this young province much work awaits the investigator, which when accomplished will return many times the cost of such an institution as an agricultural college and its upkeep, if history is any guide.

The college should unquestionably be located where it would be of the greatest possible service to the province; necessarily on a main line of railway, and easily accessible from a large centre, thereby enabling visitors to become acquainted with agricultural possibilities in Alberta, with little trouble; also, enabling our own farmers to frequently visit the college to obtain any information or advice they require.

A portion of the college farm should be irrigable, and the science of irrigation demonstrated in a practical manner, having such large areas of irrigable land in Alberta.

All those who are interested in agriculture, especially our agricultural organizations, should take this important question seriously in hand, and have the matter satisfactorily settled. We must also see that our cabinet ministers and parliamentary representatives understand our wishes and carry them out.

Now is the time for action, not after those who are closely interested have settled the matter for the farmers.

W. J. TREGILLUS.
Calgary, June 25, 1909.

Lethbridge Herald:

With The Herald it is not a question of antagonism to the north in our expression of opposition to Strathcona. On principal we are opposed to the agricultural training being associated directly with the university. We do not believe it is in the interest of the student of agriculture; rather we consider it is a factor in weakening the interest in agricultural education. Senator Talbot quotes enough instances to establish that conclusion. Whether Strathcona was the university city or not, it is not an ideal location for an agricultural college, especially in this province, where agricultural conditions are so diversified. For instance a man from Southern Alberta in taking up an agricultural course, might seek practical knowledge of irrigated farming. Where could an agricultural college at Strathcona assist him? A student from Medicine Hat would seek a practical knowledge of dry farming; where could Strathcona offer him the knowledge?

The agricultural college should be located at a point where all the diversified conditions of agriculture could be exemplified. The province is not without such locations. It should be apart from the university and away from the city for the convincing reasons offered by Senator Talbot, and the people who agree with the senator should not hesitate to impress their views upon the proper persons.

W. McCammon, the well known cattle buyer, shipped from Gleichen nine car loads of very fine looking cattle last Friday, which he purchased from ranchers in the Hand Hills, chiefly from Messrs. Kenny, Lawson and Morton. These cattle were purchased for export and were billed to England. Mr. McCammon stated to The Call man that he had never shipped such fine looking animals at this season of the year and had never seen any one else ship as good stock. He appeared greatly pleased with his purchase.

CALGARY EXHIBITION OPENS ON MONDAY

Gleichen Should Attract a Good Deal of Attention

The Alberta Provincial Exhibition opens at Calgary next Monday and Gleichen should be well represented both in horses, cattle, grain and other exhibits. Early last fall a committee was appointed to attend to gathering a good exhibit for this fair, and while they have not said much about it the samples of grain were then obtained and it is given a good display along with Mr. Buckley's trophy it should attract more than passing notice. For he it remembered Alberta took the prize against the whole world for its last crop and Gleichen took the prize against all Alberta. The Clark Bros. and other ranchers and farmers are entering a large number of high classed animals and altogether it may be expected Gleichen will get some excellent advertising from the Calgary fair this year. It is also certain that a big crowd from this town and district will attend the exhibition, and while they go to enjoy themselves The Call would gently remind one and all not to neglect to say a good word for their own good and district whenever the opportunity arises.

A plan has been hit upon whereby it has been made possible for every district in Alberta to receive the very best kind of advertising throughout the world, as a result of the Alberta Provincial Exhibition in Calgary, between July 5th and 10th. Arrangements have been made to have films taken for moving pictures of the great historical pageant to be held on the morning of July 5th, the opening day of the fair. These moving pictures will be exhibited first at Seattle during the Alaska-Pacific Exposition, and next in connection with a lecturing tour through all the principal countries of the world. Every section of Alberta represented in the monster parade, will by means of these moving pictures, introduce itself to millions of people on the five principal continents. The opportunity is offered and it now rests with the people of the province to decide whether or not they appreciate the enormous advantages which are bound to result if they identify themselves with publicity movement. There is sufficient time remaining before the exhibition opens, for every district in Alberta to arrange to be represented in the historical pageant, which will be a portrayal of the development of the province from the days when the Indians reigned supreme, down to the present industrial epoch.

The contract for the erection has been let during the past week to Messrs. Gow & Gorthorse of Calgary, who claim a very high standard of efficiency in the building trade, and come highly recommended from large works of this character in Calgary and other important centres.

The plans of the structure have been on view for some time and a glance at the specifications show that the new Palace will prove a substantial addition towards the building up of the thriving town.

The part now building is 75 feet square and as soon as it is completed the front part of the present building will be torn down, which is the first hotel Gleichen could boast of. The back portion is to be moved back some distance, and a full new front built on in solid brick, and the remainder brick veneered, thus it will be 75 feet wide and 115 feet in length and three stories high.

The new structure is to have accommodation for 100 guests and will be fitted up with all the most modern improvements, at a cost of between $25,000 and $30,000.

On the first floor is to be an office and sitting room, 25 x 30 feet, a dining room 27 x 32, a bar room 20 x 25, a bar, shop 15 x 25, two separate rooms each 25 x 16 and the kitchen, pantries and laundry will occupy 45 x 35.

The second floor will have a parlor 22 x 11 feet, and the rest will be devoted to bedrooms, as will be the whole of the entire third floor. The hall-ways will be of a good width and provisions are made for the best system of fire escape that can be constructed.

The entire front will be covered with double verandahs of artistic design at the second and third floors, and a cement sidewalk will be put down in front of the building.

Furnaces are to be installed in the basement to heat the entire building with hot air and a gasoline engine will provide a waterworks system for the bathrooms and all other purposes.

The erection of the building is being financed by Mr. F. K. McKay, who has been the owner for a number of years, but otherwise the hotel will be owned by Messrs. Bray & Brosseau, who have taken a long lease on the property. The latter have also arranged to put in an electric dynamo to be operated by the gasoline engine, with which they will light the house throughout by electricity, and are now considering the advisability of supplying the town with electricity.

Messrs. Bray & Brosseau have made many friends for themselves since their arrival in town, and are now showing their business foresight and enterprise in a manner that is worthy of much praise. One of the new hotel and provisions are to be made and will appear in The Call shortly, when an interesting article will be produced on the enterprises in which these gentlemen were engaged previous to their arrival at Gleichen.

F. K. McKay Sells Store Business

Two young men dropped into town on Monday, and before one could say "Jack Robinson," purchased the General Store business of Mr. F. K. McKay.

While we regret Mr. McKay's retiring from the mercantile life of our rapidly growing town, we most congratulate these young men in securing this splendid business which is one of the best in the country.

The parties interested in the deal are Messrs. J. K. Reimie and J. A. Ramsey, of Prince Albert, Sask., who, during the past month, have visited several important points in Alberta looking for a location, and think that in Gleichen they have struck the correct spot.

Messrs. Reimie and Ramsey have both had many years' experience in two of the large mercantile establishments of Eastern Canada, and during the past five years have been located in Prince Albert.

They are certainly stepping into a thoroughly up-to-date and well established business, and will no doubt carry out to a very successful issue the happy business relationships, which have existed between Mr. McKay and his numerous customers.

We welcome them to the business and social life of Gleichen, and trust they shall have no regrets for casting in their lots in this bustling community.

They take over the business soon as stock taking is completed.

Senator Talbot on Location of the Agricultural College

Senator Talbot has addressed the following letter to the different members of the Provincial Legislature, upon the subject of the Agricultural College:

The people of the cities of Strathcona and Edmonton, the professors in the university, the university senate and at least some of the members of the executive council of the legislature seem determined that our proposed agricultural college shall be placed at Strathcona and under the same management as the university proper.

In my opinion such a step would be the severest blow that the agricultural interests of this province could possibly receive.

As a practical farmer, and one who has devoted a good deal of time to educational matters as well, I desire to draw attention of the members of the legislature and the agricultural public to some very interesting facts, so that before any money is voted for this object we may all be in position to consider the question on its merits.

Fact 1. The most successful agricultural college on the North American continent today is the Ontario Agricultural college at Guelph and is a separate institution. It is located about fifty miles from the nearest university and is not at all connected with the university except for examination purposes and the conferring of degrees.

Fact 2. During last winter the professors of the Alberta University gave addresses in different places and tried to create a sentiment in favor of having the two institutions combined. For this purpose they cited instances where the agricultural college was said to be united with the university and was a success. One instance given by them was the state of California. Now, I would not like to say that in this case the facts were purposely misrepresented. But I do say that those who made the statement did not take the trouble to acquaint themselves with the true facts. It is quite true that in the state of California the agricultural college was connected with the university at one time. But the union was not a happy one. The agricultural college was a failure.
So apparent was the failure and the cause thereof that during the sessions of 1905 and 1906 the legislature of the state of California voted no less a sum than $292,000 to separate the institutions. They were separated and the agricultural college was removed sixty miles from Berkeley the seat of the state university.

Fact 3. Another institution that has done the same as California is the agricultural college at Cornell university. Formerly this was one of the colleges of the university, but it has recently at a very great expense been separated from the university and made an independent institution under the able presidency of professor L. H. Haily, who was formerly dean of the agricultural college.

Fact 4. The agricultural college of Minnesota has been cited as an instance of success resulting from the union of the agricultural college and university, they were in reality distinct institutions and are several miles apart.

Fact 5. The case of the Wisconsin agricultural college is also cited as an instance of a successful agricultural college united with the state university. It is true the institutions are united and it is true that the agricultural college is a success. We do not have to look far for the cause of the success. Here the agricultural interests and the agricultural men are the biggest things about the institution. Such agricultural men as Babcock, Russell and Henry have made Wisconsin what she is.

Fact 6. Sir William McDonald of Montreal has donated millions of dollars to McGill university. The department of chemistry, physics, etc., etc., and that institution owes much to his generosity. Experience however, taught him that though he was spending enormous sums of money, he was not reaching the sons and daughters of the farmers as he would like and we find him establishing the college at St. Ann de Bellevue.

If Sir William McDonald and Professor Robertson thought they could benefit the farmers of Ontario and Quebec by doing so they would have started their college at Montreal and affiliated it with the McGill university. But they did not do so. The college of St. Ann de Bellevue is not connected with any university except for examination purposes and is out in the country.

Any practical man who will take the time to consider the matter can easily find the causes of the general failure of agricultural colleges that are closely affiliated in large cities.

A course at such a college has a tendency to drive our sons and daughters from the farm. Few young men or young women can spend three or four years of a very impressionable time of their lives in a large city and then contentedly go back to the farm. There is a tendency already for our young men and women to go to the city. If you think as I do, that a rural life is best, physically, mentally and morally, we should discourage, rather than encourage, the movement.

When the agricultural college is under the same management as the university and along with it, we deprive all but a rare few of the sons of farmers of the benefits of a course at the college.

If the institutions are together the matriculation or examinations for entrance must be nearly similar. To pass the ordinary matricula-tion examination most pupils will have to spend about two years at a

PROF. THOS. HAW
Recommends a Conditioner and Tonic

Hackney Stock Tonic and Condition Powder is scientifically prepared from Roots, Bark, Seeds and Herbs, which animals were able to secure in their wild state, but which you must supply them now. This scientific food gives your stock a chance to do better. You only put a tablespoonful of these "Tonics" in the regular feed; it sharpens the appetite, purifies the blood, aids digestion, strengthens the kidneys and keeps the animal healthy and growing. These animals increase 15 to 25 per cent, over the old method of feeding. We guarantee you extra profit. It saves time and feed and quickly expels worms.

LIVERY MEN USE IT

The Hackney Stock Food Co., Ltd., Winnipeg, Man.

Gentlemen,
I have much pleasure in recommending your Stock Tonic to all liverymen and horse dealers. We have found it a valuable article, particularly in cases where horses have been suffering from distemper or have been run down from overwork. I would not be without it in our stable.

EGG POISONING.

Some Persons Always Affected—Others Only Occasionally.

Instances of egg poisoning appear from time to time in periodical literature, and the subject is referred to in some but by no means all works on dietetics.

While cases of acute poisoning are rare, writes a physician in The Medical Record, some susceptibility as regards eggs is not so very uncommon. People constantly assert that eggs make them bilious, and, while in some this is often imaginary, in others the condition actually exists.

This is notably true of infants and young children. Not only do many infants and young children digest eggs with difficulty, especially when first eaten, but many more are made ill if this particular food is partaken of too freely or, in the case of older children, if the egg diet is kept up too continuously.

This inability of young children to digest eggs is probably in line with the well recognized fact that the infant's stomach, or digestive juices, must be taught to digest most dietary articles other than the maternal milk. Cows' milk, for instance, is a veritable poison to some infants, while many a newly-born requires some practice and education before it can thoroughly digest even mother's milk.

Individual susceptibility as regards eggs is extremely variable. In some persons eggs always act as poisons, while in others the toxic influence may be marked at one time and at another much diminished or entirely wanting, especially when the subject is in sound condition.

The susceptibility may be observed in eggs of every degree of freshness and in some cases only with eggs of certain birds. Changes in eggs may be brought about by methods of cooking, for, while some persons manifest their susceptibility only when the egg is raw, others are poisoned when it is cooked or prepared in some unusual and unaccustomed manner.

In most of the reported cases the white of the egg appears to have been the offending element. The symptoms of egg poisoning differ greatly in degree. In some cases only nausea and headache occur. In others the most violent symptoms, suggestive of irritant poisoning, are observed.

Sometimes when the use of eggs is long continued they give rise to the symptom group which we call biliousness, which, after all, is but a form of auto-intoxication, due possibly to the presence of some alkaloid in the blood. The symptoms of egg poisoning are essentially those of so-called ptomaine poisoning.

It is true that the eggs giving rise to toxic phenomena are in most instances apparently fresh when eaten, but when we recall that the porous shell of the egg will admit the micro organisms that cause the egg to rot, as well as various strong odor, it is easy to comprehend that an egg may appear fresh and yet contain bacteria that in susceptible persons and in certain conditions of digestion may produce changes which may cause toxic symptoms.

Friendship Insurance.

That there may be such a thing as carrying insurance too far is indicated by the case of Mr. Mulcahy and Mr. Mulhooly, two Irish gentlemen. Though they were known to be great friends, they were one day observed to pass each other in the street without a greeting.

"Why, Mulcahy," a friend asked in astonishment, "have you and Mulhooly quarreled?"

"That we have not!" said Mr. Mulcahy, with earnestness.

"There seemed to be a coolness between you when you passed just now."

"That's the insurance of our friendship."

"I don't understand."

"Who, thin, it's this way: Mulhooly and I are that devoted to wan another that we can't bear the idea of a quarrel, and as we are both mighty quick tempered we've resolved not to shake up to wan another at all!"—London Tit-Bits.

Most Deadly of African Fevers.

We often hear of the African fever, or jungle fever. But speak of the fever to the man who has been where it prevails and he will tell you that it is more feared by the explorer than the most dangerous animal. There is a malarial fever that the African mosquito will put into you with its life.

It may stay in you all of seven years, but you can finally get rid of it by proper treatment. But the black water fever of German East Africa comes on you and catches you when you may think the trouble is only a little malaria. Unless there is a physician in the party who knows its signs the man who is stricken with it seldom comes back to the civilized world alive.

The Slaves.

The people known as the Slaves appear in history north of the Black Sea about the time of the Emperor Trajan, A.D. 110, and begin to be mentioned with some frequency during the sixth century. Since then they have pushed westward into the Teutonic domain, but have nowhere, save in Russia, retained political independence. Of the fifteen or more Slavonic languages the old Bulgarian and the modern Russian, Polish, Bohemian, Croatian and Serbian are of the most importance.

Fourflushers.

"Him a musician!" sneered Tete de Veau. "Why, he doesn't know the difference between a fugue and a symphony."

"Really!" cried L'Oignon, lifting his brows in shocked amazement.

An hour later they caught each other in the club library looking the difference up.

The Cheerful Errand Runner.

"It is really a pleasure, m'am, to observe how readily your little boy runs your errands."

"Oh, he's the boy that lives next door. I get him to do my errands because my own boy won't."

"Ah! What is your boy doing now?"

"There he is, rushing on an errand for the lady next door!"

Any your building material from The Crown Lumber Co. "the new lumber yard" will receive good clean stock and courteous treatment.

Mr. Walsh arrived from Orono, Minn., on Monday to look after the farm interest in this vicinity.

While there is much talk just now about the location of the agricultural college it is not to be settled for some months yet, for Gleichen has it from Premier McPherson and other members that the location has not yet been considered by the cabinet. Nevertheless, now is a good time to keep busy.

The C.P.I.C. on Tuesday raised the price of their land from $15 to $18 per acre for non-irrigated land and from $25 to $30 per acre for irrigated land. The company found it quite impossible to keep the surveys and ditches ahead of the demand to purchase land in this district.

N. Y. Hall brought in from his farm at Queenstown on Monday a bunch of well-headed out fall wheat, and has left it on display at The Call office. The stacks measure 27 inches high and 31. Hall states it is a good average sample of his field. He also says that one of his neighbors revealed a portion of his fall wheat field, but he regrets doing so as the fall wheat he left is now doing quite as well as the spring.

F. W. Crandall, inspector of the development department of C.P.I.C. Co. has made a careful estimate and states 15,747 acres have up to the present been broken this year under his department in this district, between ranges 15 and 27 and townships 18 to 28. That is going some. The company has been obliged to refuse to break over 8000 more acres as they cannot employ the teams to do it.

Agricultural College

high school after passing the public school leaving examination. This two years, together with the three or four years required at the college before graduating, makes it so expensive in time and money that very few farmers' sons will be able to take the course. The work of an agricultural college should be an elementary and of so practical character and also entirely dissimilar to that of the ordinary arts course that the two classes of students cannot be successfully managed at the same institution, and it is rare indeed that you find a university professor who is a success in the department of agriculture.

Alberta needs an agricultural college that will help the greatest possible number of her sons. If farming can be made more agreeable, more pleasant, more interesting and more profitable than it generally is and it can our boys want to know it right away. Such a college should be in the country, of easy access, in a good farming community. The young man or young woman who is at least 18 years of age, in good health and who has passed or can pass the public school leaving examination, and who has the practical knowledge which farmers' sons and daughters at that age usually have, is in my opinion a fit and proper person to be supplied as a student at that institution.

The course should be of as practical a character as possible. Bear in mind, we want these young men and women back on the farm when the course is through. A very limited amount of time in comparison should be given to history, literature, geography and grammar. None at all can be spared for the dead or foreign languages. For chemistry, botany and geology, only so much as shows the relation of plant and animal life to the soil. Deal as fully as possible with grains and grasses, trees and shrubs, farm conveniences and beautiful homes. A knowledge of farm implements and their care, farm woods and their destruction would be worth millions of dollars every year to Alberta. See that every student has a knowledge of the different classes of and breeds of farm animals, their care, uses and tending, with a slight knowledge of their structure and common remedies for the more common diseases.

The students should board at the college. The institution should be as homelike as possible. The products of the farm, connected with the college should be sold in the college at the cost of production. In this way the cost to the student of the agricultural college per term need not exceed one half the cost to the student of the university proper. Such a college would be within the reach of an immense number of our boys and girls. The cost to the province need not be much. The benefits to the farmers would be enormous and the results speedy.
